22-25 JUNE 2017
TRINITY COLLEGE, UNIVERSITY OF TORONTO

SPECIAL SESSIONS AND EVENTS

INVITED GUESTS

Sam Hollander is University Professor Emeritus at the University of Toronto where he served on the faculty from 1963 until 1998. He is an Officer of the Order of Canada, Fellow of the Royal Society of Canada and Distinguished Fellow of the Canadian Economics Association. His major books are devoted to studies of Adam Smith, David Ricardo, John Stuart Mill, Thomas Robert Malthus, Jean-Baptiste Say, Karl Marx and Friedrich Engels. He now lives in the Judean Desert where he is preparing a book on eighteenth-century ethical utilitarianism.

Friday at 9 am: John Stuart Mill and the Jewish Question

Deirdre McCloskey taught at the University of Illinois at Chicago from 2000 to 2015 in economics, history, English, and communication. A well-known economist and historian and rhetorician, she has written 17 books and around 400 scholarly pieces on topics ranging from technical economics and statistical theory to transgender advocacy and the ethics of the bourgeois virtues. She is known as a “conservative” economist, Chicago-School style (she taught in the Economics Department there from 1968 to 1980, and in History), but protests that “I’m a literary, quantitative, postmodern, free-market, progressive-Episcopalian, Midwestern woman from Boston who was once a man. Not ‘conservative’! I’m a Christian libertarian.”

Saturday at 10:15

WRITING WORKSHOP

PAUL DUDENHEFER – Paul Dudenhefer has been an editor of economics writing for the past twenty-five years. He was the managing editor of History of Political Economy from 1999 to 2016 and taught writing to economics PhD students at Duke from 2015 to 2017. He offers writing and editing services through <https://pauldudenhefer.net>.

Workshop: Writing in the History of Economics. Aimed at young scholars whose native language may not be English, this workshop will offer general advice about constructing history papers and will take participants through the process of writing for Anglo-American scholarly journals.

To get the most out of the workshop, participants are asked to read beforehand the introduction to ‘Charles Richard de Butré: Pioneer of Mathematical Economics,’ by Loïc Charles and Christine Théré,” Journal of the History of Economic Thought, September 2016.

Saturday at 4 pm.

Louis-Philippe Rochon of Laurentian University has organized a Post-Keynesian Summer School that will run parallel to the HES conference. Conference participants are welcome to drop in on sessions, and we welcome Rochon's students to network with historians and share our interests in the history of economic thought.
