PREVIEW OF 1984 ANNUAL MEETING

Mark Perlman, the President-Elect of the Society reports that plans for the cruise will be executed in full. He states that the Society is well prepared to continue its tradition of providing high-quality sessions at the Annual Meeting. The Society will continue to provide a wide range of sessions, including those focusing on theoretical, empirical, and policy issues in microeconomic, macroeconomic, and other areas. The Annual Meeting will be held in a beautiful location, and the Society will provide for the comfort and convenience of all attendees. The Society will also continue to provide opportunities for networking, collaboration, and professional development.

The Society will continue to provide opportunities for newcomers to the field to connect with established scholars and to learn about the latest research in economics. The Society will also continue to provide opportunities for the exchange of ideas and the dissemination of scholarship.

The Annual Meeting will feature a variety of sessions, including sessions on current economic issues, sessions on classical and modern economic theory, and sessions on economic history.
